

Atis Group adds the support of IDB Invest as a new shareholder partner.

The US$ 10 million contribution is intended for the expansion of independent telecommunications infrastructure in the Southern Cone.

BUENOS AIRES / ASUNCIÓN / MONTEVIDEO — September 2, 2026.

The multinational company ATIS Group, the only independent tower platform operating in the three countries of the Southern Cone, announced the entry of IDB Invest as a minority partner through an equity investment of up to US$10 million. The operation is intended to promote the construction of new sites and enhance co-investment in shared infrastructure, allowing its customers to expand their network and improve the quality of service more efficiently in the three markets: Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay.

IDB Invest's backing reflects strong confidence in Atis Group's mission to develop critical telecommunications infrastructure across the region. This entry as a shareholder represents an unprecedented strategic and institutional endorsement of the telecom tower sector, positioning Atis Group as a platform of irreplaceable assets backed by the IDB Group's private-sector investment arm.

"IDB Invest's entry as a shareholder ratifies the value of our proposal of regional scale and operational independence. This investment reinforces our ability to accompany operators in the expansion of their networks, offering predictability, neutrality and strategic assets designed to grow," said Juan Pablo Blanco, CEO of Atis Group.

"Expanding digital infrastructure requires long-term capital and innovative business models. Atis' shared tower platform enables more efficient network deployment while helping mobile operators extend coverage and improve service quality. Through this investment, IDB Invest is supporting critical infrastructure that strengthens connectivity, productivity, and economic opportunity across the Southern Cone," said Guillermo Foscari, Managing Director and Division Chief of Corporates, IDB Invest.

The incorporation of IDB Invest also implies the strengthening of corporate governance and the accompaniment in the continuous improvement of the highest international standards in environmental and social matters. These initiatives and joint work plan reinforce the transparency of processes and the long-term sustainability of the business, which is a fundamental part of the company's culture.

About Atis Group

Atis Group is the Southern Cone's only independent telecom tower platform, owning and operating more than 1,000 tower sites across Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay. As a neutral, independent infrastructure owner, Atis Group leases space under long-term agreements to all leading mobile network operators in each of its markets, enabling faster network deployment, improved coverage, and greater efficiency across the region. Founded in 2016 and scaled over a decade across three markets, Atis combines institutional-scale operations with deep local expertise across three distinct regulatory environments. Atis is well-positioned to continue expanding its infrastructure footprint across the Southern Cone and capturing the growing demand driven by 5G deployment.
